1. Pedro Beltran's chief bodyguard, (fnu) Santa Cruz, at one time an active member of the Union Revolucionaria (UR) in Peru has indicated to UR friends that there are "strong differences" between Beltran and the new Minister of Finance, Col. Emilio Pereyra.
2. The Minister is said to have demanded large sums to meet the current government payroll. Beltran reportedly replied that there are 6 million soles available at the Banco Central and 2 million soles at the Caja de Depositos, and that this 8 million would have to suffice to meet current payroll needs. He refused to "start the printing presses", stating that as long as he was in a position of control of the Banco Central not a single new banknote would be circulated.
